

Aesthetics By Kat

February 2019 Newsletter

Kat McArtor, Aesthetician

The Oxygen Facial Treatment

The oxygen facial treatment is for oily, combination, troubled/blemished skin.

This facial utilizes a specialized serum with an active ingredient called “lysozyme”. Lysozyme assists the skin by minimizing activity from oily and troubled skin conditions.

The oxygen facial treatment improves the surface of the troubled skin by calming ongoing irritation that may become a daily concern. A powerful blend of antioxidants -- A, C, & E complex -- softens and improves the appearance of wrinkles, fine lines, aging and mature skins.

A blend of Kojic acid, bearberry extract and licorice refines the skin surface for a youthful healthy complexion and reduces hyper pigmentation, dark spots, age spots, and darker pigments such as melasma.

The oxygen facial treatment is great for sensitive skins, rosacea, and dehydrated skin. Desensitizers of chamomile, bisabolol and sigesbeckia and orientalist extract make it possible for sensitive skin to experience cooling and calming results.

I use and recommend Skin For Life products. Skin for Life pure science delivers “Immunity Peptides” to the skin; a topic for a future newsletter.

The oxygen facial is applied with an airbrush which allows the specifically chosen serum to penetrate deeper than just applying topically. The oxygen aids with the increasing your blood circulation meaning you get better nutrient delivery to the skin along with collagen stimulation.

Oxygen Infusion:

- Hydrates
- Tightens
- Tones
- Calms

The treatment instantly soothes inflammation and redness, hydrates, calms, and evens skin tone.

Each treatment will have a selected serum which will be penetrated for optimal absorption. The treatment improves skin texture and increases collagen and elastin repair.

For the month of February, when you book an Oxygen Facial treatment online, you will receive $10.00 off! Don't forget to mention you saw this newsletter!

See you soon!
- Kat

